

IT User Services – Analyst

We are looking for a new employee to support and influence all things IT in Denmark

Roche - *We make a difference to people's lives

If you want to work for a company that makes a difference to people's lives all over the world, consider Roche. You're someone who wants to influence your own development. You're looking for a company where you have the opportunity to pursue your interests across functions and geographies. Where a job title is not considered the final definition of who you are, but the starting point.

Our work in preventing, diagnosing and treating a range of health disorders through innovative products and services enhances both people's health and quality of life. We focus on disease areas where the medical needs are greatest – such as cancer, viral infections, disorders of the metabolic and central nervous systems, and inflammatory diseases. Our diagnostics and pharmaceuticals businesses work together to develop integrated solutions that can be customised to individual patients' needs. We now have an outstanding opportunity open within our Informatics team that works across sites in Northern Europe, bringing increased productivity and core IT services to our colleagues across the organisation. The team have an embedded work-life balance and personal empowerment philosophy that support collaborative working.

The Role

Located in our Hvidovre\Horsholm offices you will support and influence all things IT, from hardware and software implementations through to projects deployments. By being the face of IT you will bring excellent communication skills, be willing to collaborate across sites to find best practice and solutions. Your IT skills will develop as part of this role and should not be a barrier to your application, but you must bring your enthusiasm to contribute to the wider Roche objective "Doing now what patients need next".
